

Brooks, Jennifer

From: L. A. Stolarczyk [l_stolarczyk@yahoo.com]
Sent: Sunday, December 04, 2005 12:51 PM
To: qrulepubliccomments
Subject: Q Rule Comments

Whereas delay in travel is one of those inconveniences, and regrettable. One can be thankful for such communication technologies of computers and LAN's, WAN's and such along with under water fiber optic cabling. The necessity of quarantine has been all to evidenced in too many regions, inside and outside of the United States. Our own exposure is not limited to the INS officers or staff that are in contact. Once the traveler or new immigrant are placed within a specific area there is a mirage of social workers that are in contact with those visitors or new immigrants. Those social workers are in contact not just with themselves but with countless others also. The INS is in contact with the visitor or new immigrant and also with others within the work place along with other visitors or new immigrants. Most diseases such as pox took 14 days to incubate after contact. If you take something like pox or yellow fever and give it repeated exposure even with a healthy individual, it is like playing russian roulette.

It should be first for the INS own physical and mental well being along with the populace, and as new immigrant to become citizens or visitors who may or may not encounter the next 100 clients that the INS encounter after talking with that one individual who is a carrier it should be understandable. It is not just for the United States it is for foriegn trade also. Communication can continue even be concluded via technological advances such as the internet.

One more item, archeological finds along with staffing, should be included in those quarantined. Does not matter what they found or what they think they died from, the fact is they dug it up and uncovered it and exposed themselves to it. They're are records of ancient plagues aren't there?

I just remembered, the shingles, I had the shingles. When I was younger I had the shingles, highly contagious. I walked and ran around with them for days, before the fever broke out. I had no comments from teachers or anyone else just voila, something near a pox around the waist line area. I had gone to school, I had gone shopping with my parents etc... chicken pox, mumps, measles those are more prone to be killers along with countless others.

In correalation with the quarantine, immunization should be inserted into the language especially for civil servants and those that generally are in contact with the general populace.

Thank you,

L. A. Stolarczyk

Yahoo! Personals

Skip the bars and set-ups and start using Yahoo! Personals for free

12/7/2005

Brooks, Jennifer

From: L. A. Stolarczyk [l_stolarczyk@yahoo.com]
Sent: Sunday, December 04, 2005 12:42 PM
To: qrulepubliccomments
Subject: Q Rule Comments

Whereas delay in travel is one of those inconveniences, and regrettable. One can be thankful for such communication technologies of computers and LAN's, WAN's and such along with under water fiber optic cabling. The necessity of quarantine has been all too evidenced in too many regions, inside and outside of the United States. Our own exposure is not limited to the INS officers or staff that are in contact. Once the traveler or new immigrant are placed within a specific area there is a mirage of social workers that are in contact with those visitors or new immigrants. Those social workers are in contact not just with themselves but with countless others also. The INS is in contact with the visitor or new immigrant and also with others within the work place along with other visitors or new immigrants. Most diseases such as pox took 14 days to incubate after contact. If you take something like pox or yellow fever and give it repeated exposure even with a healthy individual, it is like playing russian roulette.

It should be first for the INS own physical and mental well being along with the populace, and as new immigrant to become citizens or visitors who may or may not encounter the next 100 clients that the INS encounter after talking with that one individual who is a carrier it should be understandable. It is not just for the United States it is for foreign trade also. Communication can continue even be concluded via technological advances such as the internet.

One more item, archeological finds along with staffing, should be included in those quarantined. Does not matter what they found or what they think they died from, the fact is they dug it up and uncovered it and exposed themselves to it. They're are records of ancient plagues aren't there?

Thank you,

L. A. Stolarczyk

Yahoo! Personals

Single? There's someone we'd like you to meet.
Lots of someones, actually. Yahoo! Personals